(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

HARTFORD (Ct.,) July 1. At noon HARTFORD (Ct.,) July 1. At noon today Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, the famous authoress, passed away at her residence in this city. At her bedside were three members of the family, Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker, her husband, Dr. Hooker, and Harriet Stowe, a daughter of the authoress. Throughout the forenoon the friends

Mrs. Stowe gathered in the room ing for the end. Death came withstruggle, and the end merely applied to be a continuation of the unous state into which Mrs. Stowe on Monday. The arrangements has a funeral have been but partially bloomers for the services in Hartford in 13 private and the interment will take place in Andover, Mass.

Sketch of Her Life. Harriet Elizabeth Beecher-Stowe was born in Litchfield, Ct., June 14, 1812, and was third daughter and sixth child of Rev. Dr. Lyman Beecher, her prother being Henry Ward Beecher the celebrated Brooklyn divine. She was left motherless at the age of years, but after her father's second narriage her education was continue Litchfield Academy, under the charge of Sarah Pierce and John Dr. Beecher's children grew up in an atmosphere surcharged with men tal and moral enthusiasm, so that it is not surprising that at 12 years of age she wrote a school composition on the profound theme "Can the Immortality of the Soul be Proved From the Light ing enemy of slavery and subsequently bore fruit in her immortal work, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

In January, 1836, she married Calvin E. Stowe, a clergymen who had been called to the chair of sacred literature in Lane Theological Seminary, and during her residence in Cincinnati she frequently visited the slave States, and fugitive slaves were often sheltered in her house. During the riots in 1835 when James G. Birney's press was destroyed and free negroes were hunted like wild beasts through the streets of Cincinnati, only the distance from the city and the depth of mud saved Lane Seminary and the Yankee abolitionists at Walnut Hill from a like fate.

In 1850 she removed with her husband and family to Brunswick, Me., where Mr. Stowe had been called to a professorship in Bowdoin College. It was at the height of the excitement caused by the passage of the fugitive slave law. It seemed to her as if slavery were about to extend itself over the free States. She conversed with many Christian men and women, who were bilind and deaf to all arguments against it, and she concluded that it was because they did not realize what slavery really meant. She determined, if possible, to make them realize it and, with this view, wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin, or Lif. Among the Lowly." Neither Mrs. Stowe nor her friends had the least conception of the future that awaited it. It does not appear to have been widely read when it appeared in the National Era at Washington from June, 1851, to April, 1852, before it was issued in book form at Richmond and says he would it appeared in the National Era at Washington from June, 1851, to April, 1852, before it was issued in book form at Richmond and says he would it appeared in the National Era at Washington from June, 1851, to April, 1852, before it was issued in book form at Boston in 1852, and Mrs. Stowe became very despondent. She wrote: "It seemed to me that there was no hope! that nobody would hear, nobody would read, nobody would pity; that this frightful system which had pursued its victims into the free States might at last threaten them even in Canada." Nevertheless the influence of the work was great, and nearly half a million copies of this work were sold in the United States alone in the five years following its publication. It has been translated in more than eighteen foreign languages. In reply to the abuse and recrimination that its publication called forth, Mrs. Stowe published in 1853 "A Key to Uncle Tom's Cablin," and also stories of life in Cabanas forters. Corp. SQUADRON DRILLS.

The North Atlantic Fleet Will Move

on July 15.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, July 1.—In the execution of the broad plans for the in-struction of our naval officers in squad-ron drills and combined maneuvers formulated by Secretary Herbert, the summer drills of the North Atlantic squadron which will begin on the 15th inst., will find their counterpart in series of squadron movements, targe practice and fleet drills to be conducted Pacific station by Admiral Beardslee.

Because many of the shins naturally attached to his station have been necattached to his station have been necessarily transferred to the Atlantic station, Admiral Beardslee will not have as many vessels available for his drills as will Admiral Bunce, on the Atlantic Coast. Consequently, in order to be able to carry out a programme of any value for an educational standpoint, he must take the most of such ships as he can command, and it will be impossible therefore this season to withdraw any of the ships even temporarily from the squadron to attend the local celebrations at various points on the Pacific Coast, as had been customary in the past.

CANTON (O.,) July 1.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon 300 glass-workers and rolling mill men from Massillon, with a band, glass badges and glass canes, called at the McKinley home and were presented by their leader, Joseph Grapevine, who talked of protection as the safeguard of their industry, to which ex-Gov. McKinley responded, thanking the delegation for their cordial greetings and congratulations. "Nothing," said Gov. McKinley, "has moved me more deeply or touched me more profoundly than to have the ex-pressions of approbation from the workingmen-of the United States, who believe that we should have our workshops at home, our work at home; employ our people at home and employ them at American wages. And I trust the depression which settled upon the industries of this country will in the near future be removed, and we may all at no very distant day get back to the happiest time so well described by your spokesman."

At 4:50 o'clock a carload of St. Louis business men arrived over the Cleveland, Canton and Southern Railway. They were headed by Hon. R. C. Kerens and sent ex-Gov. McKinley an invitation to dine with them in their car. Gov. A Conference that Did not Help the Silverites.

No Assurance Given that They Can Have Their Own Sweet Way, Talk of Altgeld for Temporary

Chairman-Senator White, (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE)

CHICAGO. July 1.—The sliver delegation are far from satisfied with the result of the conference of their committee today with Chairman Harrity and members of the National Executive Committee. They had not counted much securing positive acquirements. on securing positive acquiescence in their demand to be allowed to practitheir demand to be allowed to practi-cally name the temporary chairman of the convention, but they had hoped to secure a more definite idea of the programme of the National Committee than they succeeded in obtaining. The result of the conference was almost nothing, and the silver men left the room feeling that their labor had been practically in vain.

They were also displeased with the postponement of the matter until so late a date as next Monday. In the absence of any definite assurance from Mr. Harrity, they are inclined to the opinion that there is a disposition, if not a determination on the part of the National Committee, to select an anti-silver man for chairman, and to postpone the announcement of the se-lection until the very eve of the convention. This they regard as trifling with them to a degree. They are there-fore disposed to proceed with their plans pretty much as if Harrity had assured them the committee would name a gold chairman, so as to be pre-pared for the emergency if this should prove to be the plan of the commuted prove to be the plan of the commuted This plan would be as heretofore out-lined, to have a silver man agreed upon the silver forces, and

Chairman Harrity insists that he has acted in perfect good faith with the silver committee, and that, being only one member of the National Committee, he could not give any further assur-ance than he did give.

The silver people also feel that the assurance in regard to the contests were very indefinite, and they find that it will be necessary for them to continue their precautions in this respect. They are quite determined that the silver majority shall be deprived of no advantage that justly pertains to the majority.

The distribution of tickets, which has The distribution of tickets, which has been arranged for, is not altogether to their satisfaction, but they do not see their way clear as yet to alter the situation in this respect. It appears that several States which will be represented in the convention by silver delegates have advocates of the gold standard on the National Committee. Each national committeeman will receive fifty tickets. This arrangement will, it is claimed, give the gold men an undue advantage in the convention from those States. in accordance with precedents there will probably be no effort Upon the whole the conference con-firms the silver people in the belief that their early reuniting and provision for cooperation is wise, and that it is neccoöperation is wise, and that it is necessary to continue their precautions in the interest of the majority. There has been considerable discussion today of the availability of Gov. Altgeld as temporary chairman, but it is intimated that, believing he can be of more service on the floor than in the chair, he will not be a candidate. The question of the selection of a man for this place, however, is still open.

PLANS OF THE SILVERITES.

PLANS OF THE SILVERITES CHICAGO, July 1.—The committee of five appointed on behalf of the silver-CHICAGO, July 1.—The committee of five appointed on behalf of the silverites to confer with the Executive Committee of the National Committee made its report to the silver delegates at a well-attended meeting at the Sherman House. The report was made by Senator Jones as chairman of the committee. The committee was confinued in existence by a unanimous vote. In presenting the report, Senator Jones stated the committee was courteously received and he expressed the opinion that the Executive Committee was disposed to deal fairly with the silverites. Some of the other members of the committee were not disposed, however, to take so sanguine a view of the situation, and at least one of them expressed the opinion that it was the purpose of the National Committee to foist a gold man upon the convention for temporary chairman. This brought out some very vigorous speeches, all very much in the same line, and evincing a determination to have the temporary chairman at whatever cost. Senator-elect Money of Mississippi was one of the most outspoken.

It was informally decided to leave the matter as the committee had reported it, agreeing to accept any silver delegate of recognized standing who might be chosen by the National Committee.

The plan of proceedings of the silver delegate of recognized standing who might be chosen by the National Committee.

The plan of proceedings of the silver men in case of the selection of a gold-standard advocate by the committee was developed during the course of the meeting. They consider that about one-third of the members of the National Committee are silver men. In the event indicated these members will present a minority report, naming the choice of the silver men for presiding officer of the convention. Whereupon the controversy will be brought to an issue upon the floor of the convention. It was generally conceded that under the precedents there could be no interference with the National Committee in preparing the temporary roll of the convention.

The silver men also discussed the advisability of abrogating the two-thirds rule. No formal action was taken, but the preponderance of sentiment was so strongly against a change that it was made practically certain that it will not be attempted. This is due to the fact that it is considered such a course will be unnecessary. Several members have presented figures to show that the change will not be necessary. These figures, on the face of the returns received, place, the silver strength at 598 as against 332 gold delegates, but assurances have been received which lead to the conclusion that the silver vote will feach 600, and it is confidently believed the display of so much strength will bring the few other votes necessary to give the request two-thirds. These figures are independent of gontests. The States which are counted upon to yield the increase are Maine, Maryland, Michigan and Florida.

The silver delegates adjourned to meet Friday night.

While no animosity was displayed on either side, the conversation was very earnest. There were no formal speeches, but general conversation. "Just as if we were sitting around a log fire in the country," said one participant after it closed. The silver men asked that it should be definitely understood that they did not come as representatives of the Silver Committee, but as delegates representing the majority view of the convention. They expressed a desire to have an understanding upen the various questions of the temporary chairman, seats for delegates and alternates, the procedure regarding the contesting delegations and arrangement of the temporary roll-call. The members of the Executive Committee intimated they would expect to consider the contests as the National Committee had done on all previous occasions and to make up the temporary roll-call. Attention was called to the fact that there so far had been no notice of a contest except in Nebraska. The silver men did not indicate whether this would be satisfactory.'

It was also stated on behalf of the National Committee that tickets would be distributed by the committee according to the established custom. The principal part of the conference was devoted to the selection of temporary chairman, but no understanding was reached. Chairman Harrity stated that

He said he had no candidate, but declined to say whether the committee would be disposed to act upon their responsibility or accept the advice of silver men. The silver men were not precisely pleased with this statement. All of them agreed in making it clear that they would expect to be consulted, and also that, in case of failure to consult them, and the selection of a presiding officer whose views were not in harmony with the majority, they would be heard from in the convention. The silver men stated they would accept any man designated by the National Committee, provided he was a man of recognized standing in the party, whose views were understood everywhere to be in accordance with their own on the financial question. They were only concerned that the convention should be recognized from the beginning as a silver convention, feeling confident that many would draw their conclusions as to the character of the convention from the standing of the temporary presiding officer in the silver ranks.

Harrity and associates listened attentively, but gave no sign of an inclination to yield to the request, nor indeed, any as to what course they would pursue, further than that outlined in Harrity's preliminary statement. All members of the Executive Committee expressed a desire to preserve the utmost harmony in the convention and among individuals. In this expression they were heartily joined by silver men with the mental reservation that the rule of the majority should be made manifest from the beginning. Nothing was said on either side to indicate a preference as to individuals for the chairmanship.

Harrity's exact position was that the ill National Committee would have to pass upon the temporary chairman-ship, and he had no means of knowing how the members of the committee now the members of the committee would regard the subject. He ventured would regard the subject. He ventured the opinion that they would be convictions and their sudgment. If controlled by convictions and their judgment. If controlled by conviction alone, they would probably select the man holding the same financial views they might individually hold, whereas, if they consuited their judgment, they might select a man whose views would be in harmony with the sentiment of a majority of the convention. He did not, he said, suppose the Executive Committee would be no use for the silver committee to-see the Executive Committee again, and they could call upon the National Committee Monday. If the Executive Committee should, however, decline to act, the silver men would be notified and would be heard again by the Executive Committee.

In an interview with Taubeneck today at Populist headquarters, he denied that he had ever stated, as printed in a Chicago paper on June 30, that Bland would be acceptable to the Populists if the Democrats should nominate him for President at Chicago.

"The People's party will not," he said, "indorse Mr. Bland if he is nominated at the Chicago convention. The Senator referred with much pleasure to the inroads of the silver forces in Eastern States, expressing the opinion that the rapid growth of sentiment there would develop a keen surprise in November. When questioned concerning his own candidacy for the Presidential nomination, Senator White would not talk so freely. He declared the compliment paid him by his friends was highly appreciated by him, and especially because he had never authorized any one to use it in connection with the nomination.

Pressed more closely, Senator White would neither confirm nor deny that his name would be allowed to go before the delegates as an aspirant for the nomination. He admitted in an off-hand way, however, that he was not so unappreciative of the honor incident to the highest position in the gift of the peo-preciative of the honor incident to the highest position in the gift of the people as to decline to cherish so laudable an ambition. From Senator White's utterances during the interview, taken all in all, the conclusion is drawn that he will go to Chicago with no intention of making an aggressive fight for a nomination, but if his candidacy should materially develop in strength he will go into the fight to win. It is certain that he will not permit his name to be used under any consideration if there is any special evidence of unity upon any other man. Senator White spoke in very flattering terms of Bland, Boles, Blackburn, Tillman and others.

ALL BECAUSE TELLER HAD COME BACK TO COLORADO.

Great Outpouring of People from All Over the State-Cheers and Banners, Skyrockets and Speechmak-ing—The Honored One Orates.

DENVER, July 1.-Senator Henry M. Teller returned to Colorado today, and on arriving in Denver this evening from Cheyenne, was met by a great outpouring of people from all parts of the State. The demonstration was participated in by all classes and by per-sons of all political beliefs, and it is doubtful if the scenes of enthusiasm enacted on the streets of the Colorado capital tonight have been paralleled in

The explosion of a bomb at the Union Depot announced the arrival of the special train in Denver at 8 o'clock. Long before that hour the streets were jammed with people. The towns of the State had sent trainloads of people to the capital, and the delegations from the counties vied in the contests of cheering and yelling. Immense flags and pennants; pictures of the Senator, and banners of welcome and greeting were displayed everywhere, while skyrockets whizzed from all the high buildings in town and the booming of cannon made a deafening noise.

An immense parade had already formed on the arrival of the train composed of military and civic organizations, all the labor assemblies of the city, wheelmen and many political clubs. The "Teller Silver Club," 2000 training formed an interesting feature of the parade, as did the Colorado ploners, the gray-headed path-finders being among the most enthusiastic in line. As Senator Teller stepped from the train there went up a mighty howl. The roar of human voices drowned out the noise of the bombs. The carriage was drawn by six white horses, and was occupied, in addition to the Senator, by the Mayor and Governor.

Escorted by the Denver Troop of the Colorado National Guard and followed by the cheering Gilpenites, the remainder of the procession bringing up the rear, the carriage moved slowly up Seventeenth street. A continual ovation followed its course. From windows, flags and handkerchiefs were waved and from the thousands on the pavements came lusty cheers. The enthusiasm reached a climax at the corner of Sixteenth and Lorimer streets, where 1500 young men unhitched the horses, tied a long rope to the pole and drew the carriage the remainder of the way. This act set the crowd wild, and along the route the young men were enthusiastically greeted.

Senator Teller reviewed the parade from a stand that had been rected for that purpose. Thirty thousand people stood in the rain and watched the procession. When the last club passed the stand, Gov. Mointyre and Mayor McMurray made speeches of welcome. After passing through the business portion of the city Senator Teller was taken to the Brown Palace Hotel.

Senator Teller then came forward and in a short address, thanked the people for the honor they had done him. He said: "I believe now that all the friends of silver have to do in this country is to get together, and when we get together i believe the friends of silver will dominate and control this country, and place it upon a monetary system that is an American system—a monetary system that we adopt without asking the consent of Great Britain or any other land.

During the proceedings in the convention, Brig.-Gen. Berger of Alabama, a veteran 92 years of age, was recognized by the chair, and invited to a seat on the platform. Hundreds of old veterans crowded into the aisle and grasped his hand, while the whole assembly cheered him. The chairman, Gen. Gordon, then introduced Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Hayes, and in presenting Mrs. Davis, made a brief speech, in which he said he wanted to speak the appreciation of the assembled Confederate veterans, and that he would place a reverential kiss upon her brow. The general then kissed Mrs. Davis amid deafeaing cheers and applause. It seems that the whole ten thousand federate veterans, and that he would place a reverential kiss upon her brow. The general then kissed Mrs. Davis amid deafening cheers and applause. It seems that the whole ten thousand veterans with one voice applauded the act. Hats were thrown, canes and umbrellas were thumped upon the floor, men yelled, stamped their feet and clapped their hands, and it was some minutes before silence was restored.

Corporal Tanner, a veteran of the Union army, was called upon. As this Union soldier, who has both legs buried in Virginia soil, appeared the whole audience arose and greeted him with cheers and hurrahs. The corporal seemed deeply moved by the demonstration in his honor, and he made a great speech. He spoke of Gen. Gordon in the highest terms of praise, and his statement that he would like to see the Georgian in the White House brought forth tremendous cheers.

Gen. Cabell reported the action of his committee, who selected the plans for the Davis monument and his report was adopted. At this point a proposition to make Jefferson Davis, Jr., an honorary member of the body was unanimusly adopted. A veteran shouldered the boy and carried him down abong the veterans, where he received an ovation. Gen. Gordon announced that he would appoint young Davis a member of his staff.

After a recess, Chairman McIntosh of the Battle Abbey Committee reported in favor of the appointment of a board of trustees to be composed of one trustee from each State, which shall be incorporated as the Confederate Memorial Association. The recommendation was agreed to. The board of trustees thus created were vested with full power to determine the location of the abbey. The contest will probably be between Richmond, New Orleans, Nashville and Washington, with chances in favor of the Capital of the Confederacy. Immediately after Nashville had been selected as the next meeting place, a motion that the same officers be continued for another year was unanimously adopted. This practically completed the business of this session, and the veterans then

Receipts and Expenditures for

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) parative statement of the government receipts and expenditures issued by the treasury today shows total receipts from all sources during the fiscal year just closed to have been $326,189,226 and the expenditures $352,231,470, which a deficit for the year of $26,042,-244. Although there was a surplus for June of $2,349,430, it is expected that the figures for July will show a deficit of at least $10,000,000 and probably more. The appropriation of $5,000,000 for sur-hounty nayments is now available and it is the expectation that all of the claims will have been settled and paid before the end of the month. Durinterest, pensions and naval appropriainterest, pensions and naval appropria-tions will be exceptionally large, so that the deficit for the month is likely to be above $10,000,000 rather than less. The showing for the year is far from satisfactory to the treasury officials, and what is equally disquieting is the fact that the immediate future prom-

The receipts from internal revenue during the year amounted to $146,508,264, nearly $11,500,000 less than the secretary actimates sent to Congress. The nearly $11,500,000 less than the secretary's estimates sent to Congress. The customs yielded $160,534,351 or $11,465,649 less than the secretary estimates. The total receipts for the year, however, showed a gain of about $12,800,000 over 1895. The customs increased about $8,250,000, the internal revenues about $3,000,000. The receipts from miscellaneous sources made up the balance.

The pension payments during the year amounted to $133,434,046, a reduction of nearly $2,000,000 from last year's payments. The interest payments during the year increased over $4,250,000.

NEW YORK, July 1.—A dispatch to the Herald from Athens says Deputy Scouloudi, a friend of the King and Minister of Marine under Tricoupis, has asked the Herald to express the wish of all Greeks that the United States government should send a ship—say the San Francisco—to aid the fugitives, women and children, who are starving. There are 5000 at Gonia and 7000 at Point Plata. The women are so weakened by exposure and lack of food that they can no longer suckle their children, who are dying by hundreds.

M. Scouloudi says that Americans are he only people who cannot be suspected the only people who cannot be suspected of having any ulterior motives, therefore the only people who can undertake this great humanitarian work without exciting jealousy and disagreement.

It may be called to mind that in 1868 Admiral Farragut took off the women and children under similar circumstauces, when Mr. Seward was Secretary of State. When remonstrated with on that occasion by the Pasha, Mr. Morris, the United States Minister at Constantinople, made the noble reply: "When we Americans undertake any act of humanity, we don't ask the advice of any one."

Thirty years ago the settlers, upon the massacre of several white families, surrounded the Indians and butchered many of them. Sheriff Houston says that he will start today with a posse of four men. Indians have gathered from all the surrounding country as far north as Fall River Valley, twenty miles distant. Quite a number of people live in Big Bend, which is a rough country, heavily timbered, with little meadows scattered here and there. The Sheriff thinks that, with the settlers organized, there will be enough men to intimidate the Indians. All that is necessary is an organization, and some one to give directions. These mountain Indians are made of different stuff from those of the valley, and are inclined to be independent, but by July 4 the settlers will be armed and upon their guard.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Charleston arrived in the harbor shortly after noon today, with her silky homeward pennant floating from her peak and a crowd of beaming faces looking over her rall as she steamed up the bay to a position off Folsom street, where she dropped anchor.

This is the Charleston's first visit to San Francisco since August 26, 1894.

This is the Charleston's first visit to San Francisco since August 28, 1894, when she left for the Asiatic station. The terms of many of her crew have already expired and those who still have to serve are for the most part "short-timers." The Charleston will lie in the bay until after the Fourth of July. She will then proceed to Mare Island and go out of commission to receive a thorough overhauling. She was Inspected in the Orient by Admiral McNair three or four months ago, who found her to be in excellent condition considering the length of her service.

The trip from Yokohama was uneventful but speedy, the cruiser making the run to Honolulu in 13 days 3 hours, and covering the 2100 miles from the islands to this port in 8 days 3 hours. Her average speed for the entire voyage of 5500 miles was about eleven knots an hour, which is very good considering that the cruiser is fitted with old type of compound engines.

The cruiser's pennant, flag and jackwill be presented by her crew to the city of Charleston, after which she was named, when she has gone out of commission.

An Effort Made to Air Them in Open Court. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.-A. Anderson was again a witness in the Ashley-Baldwin suit today. He re-peated in detail the story of what he valms to have seen while Baldwin and iss Ashley were together at Santa ita. An effort was made to learn it the witness knew of Baldwin's tion with other women, but Judge k refused to admit the testimony.

k refused to admit the testimony. hile under cross-examination, Anhal on admitted that at one time he an agreement by which he was to live a certain percentage of any judgment which Miss Ashley might receive. This agreement was produced in court today, and was offered in evidence by the attorneys for Baldwin. It is dated October 17, 1894, and shows that for his services in the case Anderson was to receive 10 per cent. of Miss Ashley's prospective judgment. This agreement was rescinded July 7, 1895. The consideration was $1, and in addition Miss Ashley agreed to pay a small sum of money due from Anderson to her brother.

Attorney Crittenden invited a sensational disclosure on redirect examination. He offered to prove that when Baldwin was in St. Louis in 1893 he was living on intimate terms with a young girl. Judge Slack refused to allow the testimony. The witness was simply allowed to state that he had seen Baldwin in company with a girl "all over St. Louis." He was not permitted to state whether Baldwin was at the time traveling with a greyhaired woman who had a little girl with her.

Attorney Crittenden next introduced the name of Bessie Riley to the record. He desired to know if Baldwni had not told the witness that on account of his betrayal of Bessie Riley he had been compelled to convey property worth $35,000 to the girl's mother, a Mrs. Richards. Counsel for Baldwin objected and the objection being held good, the question was not answered.

Anderson was succeeded on the stand by Miss Emma Ashley, sister of the plaintiff. She was called to contradict John Osborn, an Oregon farmer, who, when called as a witness for Baldwin, tolday damaging story of alleged intimate relations with Miss Ashley in Boston. According to Miss Emma's story, Osborn courted her sister and sought the fair Lillian in marriage. He was said to have asked the consent of the mother. Lillian did not view Osborn's suit with favor and refused him. The reputation of the plaintiff was further defended by her brother, E. Porter Ashley. He described the occurrences in the hotel at Oakland. He denied that his sister was intimate with Falvey. He was certain that they never went riding together. The witness recalled without difficulty numerous occasions when his sister was intimate with Falvey. He was certain that they never went riding together. The witness recalled without difficulty numerous occasions when his sister went riding with Baldwin. This was a direct contradiction of Baldwin, who testifield last week that he never took Miss Ashley riding.

Young Ashley also called to mind an occasion when Baldwin had urged him and his sister to leave the Oakland Hotel and remove to the house where Baldwin was stopping. "My sister refused the invitation," said the witness.

"She told Baldwin that she could not go to his house because he had two disreputable women there."
Ashley was not blind to the intimate relations which are said to have subsequently existed between his sister and Baldwin. He declared that on at least a dozen occasions he had seen Baldwin enter the room of his sister in the Baldwin Hotel.

The withdrawal of Eton School boys having been gracefully brought about, there will be no necessity for rowing a trial heat on July 6, and the first contest for that trophy will therefore occur on the day following.

carded, and American oars will, carry the sons of Old Ell to victory or defeat.

There is no cocksureness about the crew or their friends, but they will row their best; are in the pink of condition, and will at least come very near capturing the Grand—that is about the situation of affairs from the American standpoint, although Bob Cook appears to look gloomy, shake his head somewhat despondently and intimates that he is not satisfied with the work of his pupils. But Bob Cook has been known to do the same thing many times before and then have his crew walk away from their opponents, to the great dismay of the latter. In fact, the throwing of cold water upon the chances of Yale is in some quarters looked upon as being an old trick of the master coach, so no importance is attached to his cloudy forebodings. Everybody about the Yale headquarters hopes for the best, and few people would be astonished to see the dark blue of Yale driven to victory on the Thames.

Nearly one-half of the seats in the grandstand have been turned over to the Americans for the accommodation of their friends, and it was the desire to have as many as possible of the latter present which, combined with other reasons, prompted the Henley Regatta people to bring about the withdrawal of the Eton School boys. The Evening News's correspondent at Henley says: "Nobody can speak too well for the Yale men. They are hardly likely to win, but they are certain to give a good account of themselves."

A special to the Kansas City Star from Columbia, Mo., says that Mrs. J. W. Carlisie, wife of the city collector, is dead. She was related to Hon. John G. Carlisie, Secretary of the Treasury.

A Perry, Okla., dispatch says the Rev. Ronald D. Worth, a New York Baptist preacher, has been divorced from his wife. Elvira M. Worth. He swere that she spoiled his Sunday coat to keep him from his preaching appointments and filled his shoes with water.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Panama says that Horatic Gusman, formerly Nicaraguan Minister to the United States, sails for Corinto tomorrow. It is reported that he has been returned as a Liberal candidate to Congress, but that he will refuse to go, being impressed with the idea that he was not fairly elected. Dr. Parra, Liberal Governer of the Department of Tolims, Pinsen, has resigned. Dr. Pinto has been appointed to succeed him.

PLENTY OF MONEY.

THE THING NECESSARY IS ADVAN TAGEOUS USE OF IT.

Set Factories Going, Give Employment to Many, and Put Money in Circulation. When free-silver champions assert that this country is suffering from a paucity of money they are guilty either of attempting to falsify incontestable facts or of gross ignorance.

facts or of gross ignorance.
Not even Senator Teller will deny that in 1891 this nation, reached the greatest degree of prosperity it had ever known. Every branch of indus-try was flourishing, labor found ready employment and wages were the high-est in the history of this government. Yet during that year the average per capita circulation was only $23.41. On (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

The Star's correspondent telegraphs: "The Yale men look fit to row for a kingdom, but they are not yet good enough to win the Grand Challenge Cup, although they have plenty of time to improve. The Bolters.

The Bolters.

(Detroit Journal:) As a rule the Republican bolters agree that the Republican platform is all right in every plank except the money plank, and that the ticket is an exceptionally good and strong one. They seem to place the money plank above all others in importance, ignoring the fact that the distressed condition of the country is due to the reversal of the tariff policy of the country by the party now in power.

policy of the country by the party now in power.

It is hard to reason with men who are willfully blind to the real situation and the prime cause thereof. They will not listen to reason. They would set aside every other issue but that of free silver and make that the remedy for all ills, the one and only cure. They would vote for free silver in a plaform that misrepresents their views on every other issue, judging from the way they talk. Another party's platform, all wrong in every platform but this one, would get their support rather than a platform that is all right in every plank but this one, as they view them, if we understand their position correctly.

Bolivia, Japan, Free-silver Countries. Bolivia, Japan,
Central America, Mexico,
China, Persia, China, Peru, Tripoli.

India,

The free silverites want the United States to become the twelfth member of this illustrious group of nations, and have a currency as semi-civilized as theirs. The free silverites think that money which is good enough for Americans.

Might Fill the Bill. Might Fill the Bill.

(New York Mail and Express:) Teller and Cameron or Cameron and Teller, would about fill the bill for the free silver shouters. Both men have risen to prominence through the favor of the Republican party, both have acquired fortunes under its wise management of the hational finances, and both are ready to join in an effort to defeat it because it refuses to betray its lofty trust. Their opposition is an unconscious tribute to Republican con-sistency and courage.

Attorney for the Defense. Attorney for the Defense.

(Cleveland World:) Mr. Whitney has been retained by the Democratic gold men as attorney for defense. He lays down some excellent Republican arguments against free colnage. In fact, he occupies Republican ground. He is not opposed to silver as a part of the currency, but he is opposed to free colnage of silver because that would make the metal not a part but the whole of the currency. His refusal to accept the nomination is unmistakable, not vague like Mr. Cleveland's.

(Philadelphia Telegraph.) It is as certain as anything can well be that what Mr. Cleveland wants the Chicago convention will take particular pains not to do. The same may be said, to a certain extent, with regard to Mr. Whitney, whose personal surroundings at this time make him a red rag to the free-silver Democratic bull. What he has to say concerning the alleged duty of sound-money Democrats in the East will be listened to by them with a certain measure of respect; but his appeals to the silver majority, the power of which he frankly admits, will fall Silver Men Will not Listen.

Promise of Compromise Promise of Compromise.

(Buffalo Enquirer:) The statement issued by W. C. Wnitney is the first sign that we have seen of a clearing up of the Democratic situation; and its special significance is due to the fact that he has been chosen as a representative of the Democratic opinion of the East on the money question, and yet assumes so moderate and sensible a position as to give hope of a compromise at Chicago, where hitherto there was a promise of nothing but strife and party disruption.

Brotherly Love in the Camp. Brotherly Love in the Camp.
(Philadelphia Press.) A Democratic free silvertie organ thus speaks of the gallant sound money phalanx: "Whitney will be on hand with his beautiful smile; the oily Gorman will be there; Cal Brice will show his foxy face there, but not as a delegate; Dave Hill will be on hand, cool, calculating and unscrupilous." And it calls on all Democrats to be watchful. And, of course, this is a sound money party.

"Sweet Silver, Ben Bolt." (Detroit Free Press.) When Teller and his followers left the hall the au-dience sang "Good-by, My Lover, Good-by." The mystery of mysteries is that not a single band struck up "Ben Bolt." Some Political Proverbs.

(New York Mail and Express:) It is a wise party that knows its own financial principles, but the Democracy is not in that class.

Evil communications corrupt good manners, and they're after Mr. Teller. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and so does Tillman.

The laborer is worthy of his hire, and Republican protection means that it

The laborer is worthy of his hire, and Republican protection means that it shall be higher.

Public office is a public trust—hence the overwhelming demand for a change of trustees.

He serves his party worst who serves his country worst, and the history of Clevelandism proves it.

Mr. Herbert Miles, special representative of the Interstate Savings, Loan and Trust Corporation, Cincinnati, O., sends, corporation, Chelinary, O., Sending under date of September 3, 1895, a testimonial from his barber, Harry Scheld, of 211 West Stath street: "I want to say," writes Harry, "that for eight months I have taken three Ripans Tabules a day, and have not been to see a have taken three Ripans Tabules a day, and have not been to see a doctor once since I commenced to take them. Before I would have to have a big tube put down my throat and have my stomach flushed (I believe that is what they call it) three times every week by a doctor that charged me 50 cents for every time. Of course that always came back again, and I can tell you it was no fun to be pumped out about every two days. The doctor said I had catarrh of the stomach; but whatever it was it don't bother me now. For four years I was troubled so that I used to lose about three days out of every month.

FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY. Annual Conference at Trinity Methodist Church South. The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Misionary Society of the Methodist Church, South, is in session at Trinity Church on Grand avenue and will continue until this evening. At the opening meeting Tuesday evening Mrs. Wolfskill presided, Rev. J. J. N. Kenny opening meeting Tuesday evening Mrs. Wolfskill presided, Rev. J. J. N. Kenny welcomed the visiting delegates. Mrs. Crawford of Downey responded.

Mrs. J. R. Matthews sang "The Better Land," and Rev. Duncan complimented the women on their past record. Anumber of delegates are present from the surrounding towns, and the session promises to be pleasant and profitable. Reports were read from the following auxiliaries: Trinity, by Mrs. Fleld; Downey, Miss Edna Moore; Mateo, Los Angeles, Mrs. Tucker, from San Bernardino Y. P. S., Miss Rosseau; San Diego, Mrs. C. P. Brown.

Mrs. Birdsall and Mrs. Nettleton were introduced as fraternal delegates from the First Methodist Church, and greetings from the Home and Parsonage Society were read by Mrs. Thomas of Santa Ana. The noontide prayer was led by the Rev. Mr. Duncan. after which a recess was taken for luncheon. At 2 o'clock devotional services were led by Mrs. C. P. Brown. Mrs. Cook of Azusa came before the ladies, pleading for a church at Azusa. The conference treasurer's report was read by Joseph Hamilton, and Mrs. Marceaux, of the Kings' Daughterg, was then introduced, and gave an account of the home work. Mrs. Ellis's report of the Children's Home was very interesting. The president's annual address was then given. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Wade Hamilton. In the evening the Epworth League gave an entertainment.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday afternoon a communication was read from the Flesta Association outlining the plan for permanent organization and asking the indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce as one of the three bodies appointing the Committee on Organization. The plan as proposed was accepted by the board.

A communication was read, signed by several members of the organization Committee of the movement for "better city government," stating that over three hundred of the leading citizens were identified with the undertaking and that it was proposed to hold a convention about the middle of July, and asking for the use of the audience convention about the middle of July, and asking for the use of the audience hall of the chamber for that purpose. The request was denied on the ground that the Chamber of Commerce does not rent its rooms, nor allow itself to be identified in any way with any movement of a political character. The secretary was instructed, however, to inform the committee that the Chamber of Commerce is in favor of every movement for the good of the city or county.

To the list of members were added the names of Maeder, Priester & Com-pany, Foster & Bashford Hardware Company, A. M. Austin, Mayer & Leaning, Arthur Letto, H. S. Barr, A. J. Riethmuller and Fletcher & Harris.

Pampas Plumes Are a California Product. Eastern papers have generally reported that the idea of using pampas plumes at the St. Louis convention and of adopting them as a McKinley emblem, origi-nated with the florists of New York, and they have also said that the plumes used were brought from South Amer-

As a matter of fact, the idea was first siggested by a woman of Los Angeles county, who gave the plumes which were so effectively used in the convention. They were grown upon her ranch. Every Californian knows that pampas plumes grow in great quantities in this State.

FREE COINAGE AT 31 TO 1.

The editor of the San Pedro American recently addressed a letter to John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury, asking for his opinion as to why the free-coinage people demand the mintage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 when its commercial value is only 31 to 1, and also if a coinage at a ratio of 31 to 1 would not be virtually the free coinage of silver. In reply was received the following letter, over Mr. Carlisle's personal signature:

Carlisle's personal signature:

"Your favor of the 6th inst, is just received, and, in response, I have the honor to say that, in my opinion, the coinage of silver at the ratio of 40 to 1, or 31 to 1, would not be the free and unlimited coinage demanded by the people; that is, by the free-coinage people. Their demand is for the free and unlimited coinage of silver; that is, a coinage without any charge whatever for mintage, at the ratio of 16 to 1, which would put about 51 or 52 cents in the silver dollar.

The Education of Women.

(Dr. Richardson:) The changes that have come over us in our social life in the last two decades are, in many respects, remarkable, but in no particular are they so remarkable as in the physical training and education of women. The results of this social change have been, on the whole, beneficial beyond expectation. The health of women generally is improving under the change. There is among women generally less bloodlessness, less of what the old fiction-writers called swooning; less of lassitude, less of nervousness, less of hysteria, and much less of that general debility to which, for want of a better term. the words "maialse" and "languor" have been applied. Woman, in a word, is stronger than she was in the olden time. With this increase of strength woman has gained in development of body and of limb. She has become less distortioned. The curved back, the pigeon-shaped chest, the disproportioned limb, the narrow, feeble trunk, the small and often distorted eyeball, the myepic eye and puny, ill-shaped external ear—all these parts are becoming of better and more natural contour. The muscles are also becoming more equally and more fully developed, and with these improvements they are growing up among women models who may, in due time, vie with the best models that old Greek culture has left for us to study in its undying art. ANGLO-FRENCH DEAL. The Channel Islands Swapped for

The New York Tribune publishes a letter from London, in which it said: "Lord Salisbury is engaged in putting the finishing touches to an agreement providing for the surrender to France of the Channel Islands. The cession of providing for the surrender to France of the Channel Islands. The cession of this group, which has been the possession of the English crown since the days of the Norman conquest, bears considerable analogy to the deal through which Lord Salisbury some six years ago obtained a recognition from Germany of the British protectorate over the island of Zansibar, in return for the transfer to Emperor William of the island of Heligoland, which occupies, geographically, much the same position toward Germany as the Channel Islands do toward France. It is understood that the quid pro quo secured by Lord Salisbury in the present instance is the consent by France to the transformation of Egypt into a full-fledged British protectorate, and dependency. This, taken in connection with the conquest of the Soudan now in progress, and the arrangements now being completed for the purchase of Delagoa Bay, as well as of the other Portuguese possessions on the east coast of Africa, will enable Great Delagoa Bay, as well as of the other Portuguese possessions on the east coast of Africa, will enable Great Britain to realize her long-cherished dream of the creation of a vast African empire, which in the shape of a broad band of English territory will extend all the way from the Cape of Good Hope to the Mediterranean."

OHIO AND MASSACHUSETTS.

Contrast Between Great Men of Both States.

Contrast Between Great Men of Both States.

(Harpers for July:) Ohio as the mother of great men becomes possibly more conspicuous in war than in peace. The number and character of the men who were leaders on the field between 1861 and 1865, whose birth-place was in Ohio, or whose early training was there received, are preëminent. Among them were such commanders as McDowell, McPherson. Buell, Cox. Rose-crans, and also Sheridan. Sherman, and Grant. McClellan went to the war from Ohio, and was first appointed to the command of Ohio troops. It is only not to be forgotten that Hayes and Garfield won the title of "General" long before that of President. But these names are to me hardly significant as the fact that one-eighth of all the Federal army of the great war came from Ohio.

The similarity between Ohio and Maine in having its great men political leaders is striking. The delegation of Maine in Congress, like the delegation of Ohio, has always been one of preëminent ability. George Evans and William Pitt Fessenden, Lot M. Morrill, Hannibal Hamlin, and James G. Blaine-not to mention men who are now in Congress-lliustrate the character of the timber which the Pinetree State has sent to Washington. An Ohio Governor was the rival of the great Maine man as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1876, and four years later a like condition prevailed. The Ohio men won both in the conventions and at the polls.

But the contrast between the vocations and avocations of the great men of Ohio and the great men of Massa-chusetts is most striking. One who visited in Boston twenty or forty years ago wanted to see literary men—Long-fellow, Whittler, Emerson, Lowell, and Holmes. Summer did not attract the visited in Boston twenty or forty years ago wanted to see literary men—Long-fellow, Whittler, Emerson, Lowell, and Holmes. Sumner did not attract the public notice that Longfellow called out, nor Wilson that of Whittler, nor Winthrop that of Holmes. There are two exceptions. One, Daniel Webster. No man probably ever filled the public eye in any State as did Webster in Massachusetts. I have heard Col. Higginson say that when Webster walked down State street, State street seemed to stop its business, look out of the windows of counting-rooms, cease its, walk and turn round in order to look at the great man. Men and boys said, in bated breath, "There goes Webster!" The other exception is Wendell Phillips, great orator, who thought he was a statesman, but who helped to make the events which called into service the greatest statesmen.

THREATENED WITH THE SWORD.

KEY WEST, July 1.—There was a sensational scene in Cabanas fortress, Havana, June 23, in which Owen Milton, an American captured on the Competitor, and Gen. Olvera, Governor of the prison, were the principals. Gen. Olvera had received an anonymous letter from Key West for Milton containing 10, and had summoned the prisoner to his office. Describing what happened, Milton, in a letter to a friend here, says:

"Gen. Olvera showed me the letter and money, and said Consul-General Lee wanted to know the risme of the writer. I refused to disclose the writer's name, and Gen. Olvera threatened to run his sword through me. Again he demanded the writer's name. I told Olvera I would furnish it to Gen. Lee in person. The Spaniard saw I had penetrated his purpose, and stormed in a terrible manner, swinging his sword about my head. Finally he ordered me back to prison, telling the guard not to let me escape. Olvera used Lee's name without authority, and I have learned he has tried to trapother prisoners in a similar manner."

Milton says prisoners are being thrust into Cabanas daily, Almost every new prisoner has a story of Spanish atrocities to relate. Milton says he fears he will never live to return home. "I would give," he says. "one of my arms for the sight of the United States flag."

Constable Cline, who is here constantly on the lookout for piratical craft, immediately reported her approach, and a gang of men was at once detailed to guard the beach. As the launch came nearer apprehension changed to joy when it was discovered to be the Linda, the boat chartered by The Times to bring the papers to Avalon each morning. Under command of Capt. Nielsen she gracefully swept up to the wharf at precisely 10:30 o'clock, and three minutes later half a dozen newsboys were turned loose over the island, and the copies of this morning's paper were snatched like hot-cakes. The Linda left San Pedro at 7:10 o'clock this morning, the papers having been delivered there by pony express from Los Angeles. She made the trip over in exactly three hours and twenty minutes. Many and frequent were the expressions of satisfaction from The Times patrons over the enterprise of the publishers in thus serving even the islands of the sea with the great Southern California daily by special delivery. The Times will be thus delivered during July and August, reaching Avalon seven hours in advance of any other newspaper.

The most tremendous battle with a tuna that has yet taken place at this bonanza fishing point occurred last night, when C. P. Morehouse of Pasadena, with James Gardner, boatman, and Mr. Perkins, also of Pasadena, as companion, hooked a tuna that made as gallant a fight for freedom as any fish that swims the deep. Mr. Morehouse was fishing with rod and reel off Long Point when the tuna tackled the flying fish that baited the hook, and took at the first rush 500 feet of the light, twenty-one thread cuddy-hunk line, and the skiff went skimming along after the living engine, that towed it with irresistible power down the coast to Camp Banning. The fish was hooked at 4:45 p.m., and it was not until 8:30 o'clock that he was finally played out and hauled into the boat. He kept towing the skiff back and forth between Long Point and Camp Banning, and so great was the danger of capsizing at one time that a power launch came to the rescue, and staid by the sportsmen for an hour and a haif. The tuna weighed 137 pounds. A peculiarity of this fish is the backbone fin, which folds up at the fish's convenience and fits snugly in a little groove along Mr. Tuna's spinal column, which is entirely invisible when the fish is wet. At will the tuna can fold or unfold this fan-shaped fin. Messrs. Morehouse, Perkins and Gardner were photographed with their prize this morning.

BANNING COMPANY MAY DESERT AVALON.

Since the recent controversy in regard to the landing of the launch Point Loma at Avalon, a good deal of discussion has arisen and there are at Avalon strong advocates on both sides of the question. It has developed that there is a deplorable lack of harmony between the Banning Company and some of the property owners of Avalon. While, to a casual observer, it would seem that the Banning Company is disposed to grant all the privileges to these BANNING COMPANY MAY DESERT While, to a casual observer, it would seem that the Banning Company is disposed to grant all the privileges to these property holders, compatible with a proper regard for the company's own rights, many of them do not seem to so regard it, and show a distinct and outspoken sympathy with those who would force an entrance to the island, regardless of the Wilmington Transportation Company. While this may be a disputed point, in the language of a man well versed in law and business who was a guest at the Metropole during the recent strife, there would seem to be one way out of the tangle. Said this disinterested spectator of other men's fortunes: "Do you know what I would do if I were in the position of the Banning Company? As I understand it, there are some sixty or eighty lots owned by private individuals here. All the rest of the island belongs to the company, and is, therefore, absolutely private property. If I found I could not control things here in a manner commensurate with the fore, absolutely private property. If I found I could not control things here in a manner commensurate with the amount of capital expended in improvements, etc., I should simply fence in my property here, and by the use of large rafts or lighters, remove such of my buildings as were movable to some other point on the island—say White's Landing, which is a beautiful and commodious cove—or the isthmus, which by many is considered more desirable as a locotion for a resort than Avalon—and I should build up a summer resort and land my steamers there. Then let the property-owners of Avalon run their own resort and encourage, if they like, cheap and unreliable service from small tramp gasoline boats. It looks to me as if any further expenditure of money by the company at Avalon would be like throwing it into a well, unless some definite conclusion can be reached whereby they can exercise more control over their moneyty."

be like throwing it into a well, unless some definite conclusion can be reached whereby they can exercise more control over their property."

Later The Times reporter broached the subject to Judge Banning. With a quiet smile he listened to the gossip, and then said "I should greatly regret being forced to abandon Avalon, and we shall not go unless compelled by lack of moral support from Avalon residents. The present outlook is not encouraging; the policy of the Banning Company which has made Catalina Island famous and built up the values of Avalon holders, does not seem to be appreciated by many of them.

"Yes, it is true our investments here are heavy, but not of such magnitude as to compel the expenditure of more money or prevent the company from establishing a resort at any other point on the island should necessity require it. I exceedingly regret this unhappy state of affairs, but we shall go ahead for this season, and, as usual, do our best to accommodate and entertain our visitors."

"What about next season?"

"Time alone will tell."

The line of march for the Fourth of July parade was definitely decided on at the meeting of the Executive Committee last evening. The headquarters for formation will be at the corner of Seventh and Main streets. The line of march will be as follows: From Seventh on Main to Spring, thence on Spring to Seventh, on Seventh to Broadway, thence to Third, thence to Spring on Spring to First, thence to Broadway, on Broadway to Third, thence to Hill, where the parade will break up. The colored people are making elaborate preparations. They will have a division and will turn out in large numbers. They will hold a mass-meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Second Baptist Church on Maple avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets, to make final arrangements. All who intend to take part in the colored division are requested to be on hand.

Commencement Day at the Normal School.

An Exposition of the New Education.

Delightful Programme of Essays and Music-President Pierce's Address-He Reviews the Past and Takes a Look Ahead.

Sixty-one young men and women went forth from the Normal School yesterday, ready, after years of careful preparation, to enter upon their delightful. The programme was of reasonable length. The speakers talked of things about which they had really studied and thought, and told what they had to say in a simple, direct and forceful style.

It was at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning, while the stream of visitors were still pouring in, that the Normal School Orchestra struck up Sousa's "King Cotton" march. A few minutes passed. Every seat in the great Normal Hall was filled, and everybody was waiting expectantly for the beginning of the exercises. At last, to the stirring strains of the "Volunteer March," from DeKoven's "Black Hussar," the class appeared, coming in single file from the right and left entrances of the hall. Principal Pierce at the head of one division, Assistant Principal Dozier leading the other. The two columns marched upon the platform and the graduates took their seats, ar ranged in banks, so that none of the class were hidden from the audience. President A. E. Pomeroy and Rev. Dr. John A. B. Wilson were the only other persons upon the stage.

There had been no attempt at special decoration of the hall, but the stage presented a charming appearance, with georation of the hail, but the stage presented a charming appearance, with its throng of young people, the girls clad in dainty summer gowns of white or soft shades of green, pink, yellow or blue, the boys in black, and great masses of flowers, the gifts of friends, heaped at the front of the stage.

Dr. Wilson offered the opening prayer. He alluded to the careful preparation for a great work the class had received and begged that in future they might fulfill the promise of their youth and train the spiritual side of the children entrusted to them with as loving care as their mental faculties.

Then the class rose to sing a "Tribute to Washington," by Leonard Mashall. The selection took nearly fifteen minutes for rendition, for there were orchestral preludes and interludes, obligatos by Roy P. Rice on the flute, Jessie Bryson on the viola and Lena Wilson on the violin, and a song with string accompaniment of the Girls' Glee Club, including Misses—Rose Johnson, Edith Mitchell,

Edith Mitchell, Nellie Stanley, Sue Mathes, Mamie Bradish, Mabel Thompso

Rose Johnson, Mary Gray, Helen Kelsey, Nellie Stanley, Nellie Stanley, Helen Kelsey, Mary Clark, Mambel Thalley, Mary Clark, Mabel Thompson, Geneva Cawldwell. The piece was delightfully rendered, in a way which reflected great credit upon the leader, Mrs. Juliet Powell Rice, head of the music department. A noticeable thing was that positively without exception, every member of the class sang, for no one can graduate from the Normal School until he learns to sing himself and to teach others.

The first essay of the day was on "The Alm of Modern Education," by Eva M. Johnston. This essay covered the whole field, and the subsequent essays were elaborations upon the great branches of the theme. The planning of the series of essays was exceptionally happy. It was the original intention to have no essays whatever, by the members of the class, but instead to have addresses by men, eminent in the educational world. Prof. Brown, head of the pedagogical department, at the University of California, and Prof. Barnes, who fills the same position at Stanford, were both expected to speak, but they were unable to do so. It was not definitely settled until a few weeks ago that they would not come. Then it was decided to have essays by certain of the graduates. Instead of letting each choose some individual theme without any relation to the rest, it was resolved to have the series an exposition of the new education. The result was a delightful, well-rounded commencement programme.

Miss Johnston spoke of the change which had come about in educational thought in the last forty years. In the old days broks were the beginning and the ending; now they are the tools with which the teacher works thought in the last forty years. In the old days broks were the beginning and the ending; now they are the tools with which the teacher works and it is from the teacher and not the book, children learn most. The child is trained in music and drawing, its hands and eyes are taught, its moral nature is lovingly brought to strength and beauty and its physical development is no longer neglected. The aim of modern education is to train a weil-balanced mind in a healthy body. "The Value of Esthetic Training" was Eleanor J. Stanley's theme. The beautiful lies near the good. In teaching music and drawing to a child, one can appeal to his emotional nature and obtain a strong influence over him. Esthetic training is necessary for complete development. A study of beautiful things, the knowledge of what constitutes real beauty, teaches one to live not for self but for all.

After a German folk song by a semichorus of girls' voices, Elmo W. Reavis delivered an essay on "The Duty of Happiness." He made a plea for optimism, urged the wisdom of looking on the brighter side of things and said it was a teacher's duty to meet his pupils cheerily and to be always bright and happy in their presence.

K. Courtenay Johnston read the

K. Courtenay Johnston read the class poem, a sweet, dreamy bit of verse, which told of the ideals of a teacher's life, of the visions and fancies of pleasant and beautiful and noble things which come to one who devotes her life to the work of teaching.

devotes her life to the work of teaching.

Mary J. Clark's essay was on "Nature Study in the Primary Grades."

It was a succession of graceful pictures. It told of the delight of getting the children into the fields, of teaching them to love and study the butterflies, the worms and the birds, of telling them how the flowers grow, of describing the wanderings of a drop of water from the sea to the clouds, to the mountain tops, through the earth to a spring and down the river to the sea. The essay was a delightful presentation of a delightful theme.

The Normal orchestra next played the "Santiago Waltz" by Corbin in smooth and graceful fashion. Sue Mathes then fead an essay on "Educational Value of Imaginative Literature." With sympathetic touch she painted the charms of the tradition of the race, the unequalled beauty of the old Greek myths, the rugged picturesqueness of the Norse folk lore, the quaint English ballads and the Saxon fairy tales. Their study develops that priceless possession, the imagination. It teaches children to overcome superatition.

Harry A. Wierwille read an essay on Child Study." Mr. Wierwille is ider than the rest of the class and has been a teacher for a number of years, to what he said had the value of being first spoke to the audience of the past work of the school and of its future hopes.

This commencement day, which sent forth sixty-one graduates into the world, marked the close of the fourteenth year of the Los Angeles Normal School, which now has 753 alumni. Most of these alumni are still teaching in Southern California. The educators who visit the institution pronounce it one of the best in the land and say it probably means more to Southern California than does almost any normal school in the United States to the district in which it is situated. Bisewhere the graduates are soon scattered far and wide, but those who are bred in Southern California almost always stay here. Principal Pierce said it was right and proper those who were interested in the school should know something of what has been done, and of what it is proposed to do. Two years ago a new building was generously furnished by the State, and thoroughly equipped. At the same time the course was lengthened from three to four years. The work was strengthened all along the line. For each department a specialist was secured. The faculty was considerably enlarged, in accordance with the increased needs of a rapidly-growing school. The professional work was especially improved. During the past year several thousand dollars has been expended in the equipment of the laboratories.

The improvements planned for the coming year are still more extensive.

expended in the equipment of the laboratories.

The improvements planned for the coming year are still more extensive. With the coöperation of the City Board of Education, the training school will be made still more an adanced educational experiment station than ever before. A Sloyd room will be fitted up specially for the use of the training school, and there will be other provisions, beside for manual training. A kindergarten training school will be started, under the direction of Miss Florence Lawson, a graduate of two kindergarten training schools, who has recently completed a four years' course in the Chicago Kindergarten Training School, the best in the country. Miss Lawson comes with special recommendation from such authorities as Miss Harrison and Dr. William T. Harris, National Commissioner of Education. This will be the first school of the kind established by the State in California. It is hoped it will mean much for the development of the coming race.

by the State in California. It is hoped it will mean much for the development of the coming race.

The Normal authorities, said Principal Pierce have arranged that Southern California High Schools shall have a course planned especially for those who intend to effer the Normal, that henceforth students may take the first two years of the course in the town in which they live, without coming to Los Angeles.

Then, turning to the class, he spoke feelingly to them of the life which they have chosen. A teacher's ideals, he said should be sharp and well-defined. His work is with the childen of the State, and the future man in the child should be the teacher's ideal. The school motto says, "The coming race belongs to the teachers." The higher his ideals, the greater, the grander, the more godlike will that coming race belongs to the teacher's aim should be mental, physical and moral development of the child." Said the speaker, "should be trained to observe accurately, to think clearly and to reason soundly. It should have such a knowledge of mathematics, science, history, literature and art as will make its possessor an intelligent man among men, and a pleasant companion for himself. The

from experience and not from mere theory.

Misses Rose Johnson and Mary Gray, two girls who have just finished a special course in music and who have now both secured good positions to direct the musical work in schools, sang a duet, "The Gypsies," by Brahms, which so pleased the audience that an encore was demanded, so the two young women sang "Oh, that We Two Were Maying."

Then came the event of the day, Principal Edward T. Plerce's strong, meaty, happily-worded speech before the presentation of the diplomas. He first spoke to the audience of the past work of the school and of its future hopes.

Principal Pierce went on to give an eloquent description of the man of the future, honest, truthful and patriotic, strong and healthy, clean and courageous, possessed of that noble manhood which is the inherited right of every one.

"Mind, on which you are to work, he said, "is eternal. When the earth on which we live shall be no more, when the sun shall have ceased to shine in the heavens, and the great firmament shall have been 'rolled up as a scroll,' then shall your work prove itself, for the immortal spirits that, you have helped to train will be but merely beginning their life of enjoyment and progression in the eter-

some changes now taking place to be of public importance. The fourfold gospel presents Jesus Christ as the present Savior, Sanctifier and Healer, and the near coming King upon the earth. The Gospel Tabernacle is a regularly-constituted church, composed of members from all previous church connections, blended in a fellowship of this full faith in Christ and life in the Holy Spirit. It is of course undenominational and organized on the simplest, most flexible and practical New Testament plan. It has been organized just four years and a half, and, while not having much over one hundred in its fellowship, it supports two of its members as foreign missionaries. Several others are preparing for the same work, and others still are abroad in the home land as missionaries and evangelists. Three tents are doing field work.

Entirely distinct in organization is the Christian Alliance, while the same in gospel faith. This is a purely fraternal, non-ecclesiastical organization, embracing Christians of all denominations, still maintaining their several church relations and duties intact. This society numbers about two hundred in membership in the city, with hundreds of others in close sympathy, and there are societies in various localities of Southern California, all united in the incorporated Southern California branch of the Christian Alliance. This body contributes quite largely in a purely voluntary way to foreign missionary work. Besides the Gospel Tabernacle and the Christian Alliance, a mission work is carried on. Its chief scene of activity is to be at Nos. 759-61 Upper Main street, where a large establishment for the substantial but very cheap lodging and feeding of hundreds of men, will in a few days be opened, and the large ground room will be used as the fourfold gospel mission, seeking especially the salvation and upbuilding of these men. This work will be opened about July 15, and gospel meetings will be held every night. In this work there is also a tent, located at present at Central avenue and Ninth street,

M. H. Williams of the Los Angeles postoffice took with him a box of O. A. Zahn's homing pigeons when he started for the north yesterday on the steamer for the north yesterday on the steamer Santa Rosa. Eight pigeons were in the box. Of these, seven were liberated at The Palms for a training flight, just to warm them up and get their wings into good working order for the races on the Fourth of July. The remaining pigeon was taken aboard the steamer and liberated about ten miles out at sea. The little fellow had had no sea training, but he made the trip in two hours, notwithstanding the rather bulky message strapped to his tiny leg.

Correcting the Benson Surveys. H. S. Collier, special examiner of surveys under the Department of the Interior, passed through Los Angeles surveys under the Department of the Interior, passed through Los Angeles yesterday, en route for San Luis Obispo. Mr. Collier is engaged in correcting the Benson surveys, made ten years ago. Benson was to receive $2,000,000 for surveying certain government land lying chiefly between Fresno and Los Angeles. The work was very poorly done, and in many cases the surveys were made only on paper, without setting out any stakes. Benson was prosecuted by the government, but the suit was dismissed upon Benson's promising to properly complete his work. It is Mr. Collier's duty to verify Benson's corrections, and this means practically a new survey. He has examined and approved surveys around the San Fernando grant. The surveyors are now at work on Senator Hearst's ranch, near San Simeon, San Luis Obispo county. Their next field of operations will be in the Antelope Valley. Mr. Collier expects to complete his task before the end of this year.

As usual, there are some "kicks" on the schedule of handicaps adopted by the committee. It is noticeable, however, that these complaints come entirely from men who did not take the trouble to attend the handicapping meeting last Monday evening, and their protests are now too late:. It is a matter of great difficulty to gauge correctly the ability of every rider, but it is believed that the committee has accomplished this task as well as it was possible to do. They expected a full attendance of contestants Monday evening, but not more than one-third of them were present.

S. W. Lamoreaux, Commissioner of the Land Office, Frank B. Lamoreaux, Charles H. Webb of Durham, Buckley & Co., New York; Col. A. F. Britton of Washington, D. The main purpose of the trip is to confer with the surveyors-general of the various States in order to effect improvements and introduce better methods. On their way to the coast the party visited Yellowstone Park. Some of the adjoining settlers desire to have the park reduced, but the commissioner has recommended that it be increased by the addition of two townships on the south, to be used as a forest renervation. Yesterday morning the party visited Mt. Wilson.

DRIVER PRICE DROPPED FROM THE ROLLS FOR SWEARING.

Proposed Change in the Fire Ordinance to Procure the Burlal of All Oil Tanks-Proposed New Quarters for Fire Apparatus.

The Board of Fire Commissioners met m regular session yesterday, all the members being present.

It was reported by Chief Moore, that Fireman Gentry of chemical company No. 5 had preferred charges against Driver W. R. Rice of chemical company No. 3, for creating a disturbance by using vile and profane hanguage in the engine-house of No. 5, last Sunday afternoon. A violent dispute had arisen between the two men over some feminine gossip that had stirred up a disturbance, and Price had proceeded to take it out of Gentry. The charges were duly investigated by the Chief, who notified the two men to be present at the meeting. After examination of the charges brought, Price's name was dropped from the rolls upon motion of Commissioner Grider.

The report of the electrician for work done under his direction from June 24 to Jupe 26 inclusive, was received and ordered filed.

A communication was read from

Wheeler Bros, calling attention to the fact that numerous engines using gasoline or gasoline vapor are installed in such a manner as to be a menace to property. The letter suggested a change in the wording of the ordinance, which directs the storing of such products, to make it order that all tanks and yats used for the storage of naphtha, gasoline, distillate or other product of petroleum, used for lighting or power purposes, must be buried under ground, outside of all buildings, and not within thirty feet of the building in which the stuff is used, and it must be stored at least two feet below the lowest point at which it is burned. The matter was referred to the Chief to investigate, and report at the next meeting of the board.

Proposals from L. Schwarz, Margaretha Dockweiler and A. J. Riethmuller for furnishing quarters for the fire apparatus in the business center of the city, were referred to a special committee, consisting of Commissioners Grider. Kuhrts and Vetter, together with the Chief, to report at the next meeting of the board. The committee yas instructed to look on Los Angeles street for quarters, in the event that satisfacory arrangements could not be street for quarters, in the event that satisfacory arrangements could not be effected with those who had already submitted propositions.

The Chief submitted a list of fire hydrants, and was directed to have printed lists prepared.

Upon recommendation of the Chief, permission was granted Smith and Travis to erect and operate a steam boiler and engine at the northwest corner of Third and San Pedro streets.

Morals, who occupied two good hours in listening to some heated discussion over the vexed question.

It will be remembered that the huge petition for Sunday closing, containing the names of 8370 citizens, and the protest against it, signed by 2300 people, were both referred to the Committee on Public Morals for investigation. Only hotels, restaurants, drugstores and livery stables were excepted from the provisions of the petition for closing, which was signed by many of the most prominent mercantile organizations in the city.

Attorney W. D. Gould read on behalf of the petition a brief, setting forth the legal aspects of the case, in proof that the wished-for ordinance was not in any way contrary to law or established usage.

The protestants were represented by Fires in June.

1, and the recorded causes of confiagration tell their own little story too eloquently to need comment. Four resulted from explosions of gasoline stoves, and the deadly kerosene lamp was responsible for four more. The fondness of children for matches caused the destruction of three houses, as the dear little innocents were trusted once too often with their dangerous toys. Two fires resulted from defective flues; one was a hay fire, and the causes of the remaining six are unknown. Last year the total loss for the entire twelve months was only $50,000, half of which sum was covered by insurance.

WATER BOND FAILURE.

AGRICULTURAL DITCH COMPANY RECEDES FROM ORDER OF COURT.

its Attorneys Have Notified Judge York that a $10,000 Bond Will not Be Given—Water Ordered Re-stored to Defendants.

Judge York has dissolved the injunction restraining the defendants from the use of certain water in the New San Gabriel River, in the action of the Agricultural Ditch Company against L. W. Houghton and others. In an order made a few days ago the plaintiff was required to give a bond in the sum of $10,000, pending litigation, the same to be filed with the court within five days, and under and in conformity with said order, the use of the water in the New San Gabriel River by the several parties was fixed by the

Montoyo Brings Suit to Have His

Juan Montoyo and Rafael Montoyo have filed suit against José M. Trujillo, Marie de Trujillo, his wife, J. H. Braly and John Burr, to recover possession of lots 7 and 8. block 84, of the town of Agusa, and $1000 damages.

The complaint recites that in October, 1890, the plaintiffs appointed José M. Trujillo as their agent and placed in his hands $600 for the purchase of said property; that the defendant did purchase said lots and without the plaintime knowledge or consent, took the property; that the detendant due parchase said lots and without the plaintiff's knowledge or consent, took the deed to the property in his own name, and caused L. H. Green, the predecessor, in interest of said plaintiffs, to make the said deed to him. At a later date José M. Trujillo made a conveyance to plaintiffs of the property, and before they recorded the conveyance, he borrowed it from them and did not return it and the title is apparently vested in José M. Trujillo.

The Montoyos claim that during December, 1890, they built a dwelling upon the property and at a later date planted 500 orange trees upon it and have owned, cultivated and paid taxes upon it ever since, and remained in possession until on or about June 19, 1896, when the defendants caused the plaintiffs to be ejected and ousted therefrom, to their damage in the sum of $1000.

Elisivare now claims that he was intoxicated at the time of the seance and did not know he was being married to the woman Sanchez, his superior in years if not in looks. He says he does not understand a word in English and when Judge Smith asked him if he took the Sanchez contingent to be his wife, that she turned to him and explained that the dignified gentleman had asked if he would give her money if she needed it, and that in reply he nodded an assent. This suggestion of resignation satisfied the court and pleased Encarmacion and the dignitary departed. Elizivare is a laborer and says he has been on very intimate terms with the woman for some time, but had never contemplated marrying her and settling down to the domestic felicity so ingeniously mapped out for him.

Judge Smith is said to have declared his willingness to help the unfortunate man out of his dilemma by severing the bonds as quickly as they were tied.

Mr. Summerland was requested to appear in room 7 of the Courthouse at 1 o'clock and partake of ice cream and cake with his 150 employes. At the appointed hour he called at the final feast and was confronted by John C. Platt, who declared that the employes had a grievance and purposed emphasizing it in a manner that would not be forgotten. He then proceeded to state that Assessor Summerland had insisted upon the closest attention to the duties pertaining to the conduct of all departments in his office, refusing to excuse neglect or wrongful valuation and insisting upon accuracy and expedition. At this juncture Mr. Summerland assumed an indignant air and was on the eve of replying, but was thwarted by the sudden presentation of the watch. It was a complete surprise, and the official thanked his employes in appreciative language so soon as he could recover from his temporary embarrassment.

COW POISONING.

Hegner Held to Answer for Killing

Louis Hegner's examination was held this afternoon in Recorder Rossiter's court, on the charge of poisoning Mr. Munson's cow. The defendant was represented by Simpson & Willett, and the complaining witness was represented by Mr. Phibbs, of Los Angeles, District Attorney Williams being present in the interest of the people. Mr. Munson related a very straight story of the affair. He said that he had rented the premises upon which his corral is located, for the past four years. That three years ago he received permission from Hegner to attengthen the corral, and placed a number of strong pickets on the side of the fence belonging to his neighbor to protect his property from the stock in the enclosure.

About a year ago, Munson alleges that Hegner removed the fence entirely, and set the stock free, and that he then built thirty feet of tence which atill stands. He related how, in April, he observed that a hole had been made in the wire fence and that he observed that a hole had been made in the wire fence and that he observed that a hole had been made for the day. He nailed some loves over the place, but when he came back found these in the middle of the corral. He afterward placed boards over the weak spot but they were removed, and the cow was finally poisoned by partaking of some substance placed on the herbage of Hegner's lot, in Munson's absence, and the notice that poison had been placed, was not observed by Munson until after he had removed the nalysis he made of the stomach of the defunct cow and how he cerected the presence of arsentcal poisoning, and other witnesses were called to teatify as let the miles of the defendant as alleged in the complaint. The defense brought forward no witnesses, and the court held Hegner to answer in the Buperior Court, in bonds of $750, which were furnished. Louis Hegner's examination was held old to fourteen, had been forcibly ejected from a house on Pasadena avenue, which they have held without paying rent for a year, and were out in the cold world. The organization has cared for the family for nearly two years, and will apply to the supervisors to assist in sending them back to Seattle. They were sent here, it is alleged, solely to dump them on this community as a charge for charity, and people are requested to send money to the organization to assist in their removal from the community, rather than to bestow the community, rather than to bestow it upon the family, which is tempor-arily provided with a home.

Fourth of July Games. On account of the objections to the use of the old ball grounds on Fair Oaks avenue for the Fourth of July Oaks avenue for the Fourth of July exercises, the plans of the committee have been changed. The owners of the property adjacent to the grounds were of the opinion that there was peculiar danger of fire, on account of the proximity of three large livery barns, and accordingly the committee yielded to their wishes and changed the plan. The games will be held at the grounds of the Crown City Cycle Club on Lincoln avenue. There will be a ball game between the nines composed of the business men, and between innings a greased pig will be caught, a greased pole will be climbed, cycle races run, and other amusing features exhibited. The fireworks in the evening will be at the corner of South Fair Oaks avenue and California street.

Brought before the Recorder, he pleaded "not guility," while admitting that he did cause the hole to be cut, but when bail was set at $10 and he had a few minutes for reflection, he changed his plea to "guilty," and will appear for sentence at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, SENSIBLE SILVER MEN. It should not be, by any means, supposed that anything like all the advocates of free silver coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 are in favor of attempting such a step with out the cooperation of other countries.

A very large proportion of the silver men see clearly that it would be disastrous to attempt any such step with-out securing an agreement with other nations. A prominent advocate of bimetallism in Germany, who was a member of the last conference, in a recent magazine article shows very plainly that for the United States to attempt to introduce the free coinage of silver alone would be to retard the rec-ognition of the white metal for a num-ber of years. The current of public opinion in European countries is stead-ily setting toward bimetallism, and it is quite probable that an interna tional agreement of some kind may be reached within the next few years, unless the extremists should spoil things by precipitating a panic. COMMERCIAL.

TRADE WITH THE SAN JOAQUIN Valley. Among the sections of the country properly tributary to Los Angeles, with which trade has not been cultivated by our merchants to the ex-tent that it should be, is the southern tent that it should be, is the southern part of the San Joaquin Valley. In Kern, Tulare and even in Fresno county, there is a rich and rapidly growing section of country which is specially desirous of doing business with this city. The people of that section have no particular love for San Francisco and would rather do their trade elsewhere if given half a chance. They consider themselves a portion of Southern California, having many points in common with the seven southern counties, among others the practice of irrigation. It would certainly pay our merchants to make a decided effort toward obtaining a larger share of the merchants to make a decided effort to-ward obtaining a larger share of the trade of that section, which is destined to become one of the most thickly set-tled regions of the State. The fact that productive land can be obtained there at a very moderate price is certain to draw a large population during the next few years, of settlers who are willing to take a climate that is not altogether gild-edged, provided they can get land at a reasonable price.

MANUFACTURING IN JAPAN.
There is much difference of opinion on this coast in regard to the effect which the progress of manufacturing in Japan will have upon the United States. Some claim that it will interfere seriously with American manufacturers while others think it will cut very little figure. However this may be, there can be no doubt about the wonderful progress that has been made by Japanese manufacturers.

tle figure. However this may be, there can be no doubt about the wonderful progress that has been made by Japanese manufacturers.

The weaving or spinning of textiles constitutes the most important feature. There are fully a million weavers returned in the census, 950,000 females. This tremendous force of weavers had enabled Japan not only to supply nearly all her own wants, but to swell her exports of textiles from $511,990 in 1885 to $22,177,626 in 1895, am increase of more than forty fold.

Robert P. Porter, the superintendent of the last United States census, who recently visited Japan, is one of those who believe that the Japanese will soon be dangerous rivals of the United States. Referring to the progress that has already been made there in the industries he says:

"In the investigation of the silk industry, I spent some time, where I found the current of wages for female weavers from 3 to 4 cents per day for young girls, to 10 to 15 cents for expert weavers. I also paid particular attention to cotton spinning and weaving. I see no reason why the exports of cotton to India and China will not reach $50,000,000 before another decade. The total value of the textile industry of Japan may reach nearly $100,000,000 this year.

"Some of the other industries visited were the rug-makers of the country, where I found children of 7 and 8 working for a cent a day, and 3 to 6 cents a day were current wages for a day of twelve to fourteen hours. In some of the manufacturing regions the schools had been depopulated to one-third of their former number that there might be a supply of children to make matting.

"The wonder to me is that Japan has become so important a manufacturer without being a purchasing country." Speaking of the foreign trade, the student of figures says: "Japan's foreign trade has gone from $78,000,000 in 1885 which is speaking of the foreign trade, the student of figures says: "Japan's for-eign trade has gone from $78,000,000 in 1885, to $296,000,000 in 1895, which is nearly half the Pacific trade. In my opinion it is sure to increase as Japan inion it is sure to increase as Japan cures more and more of the Asiatio

Eggs opened firm, and butter steady. Raspberries are lower, blackberries a little firmer. Peaches have advanced; apricots weaker under good supplies. Tomatoes firmer; rhubarb doing a little better. The last few days of June saw an improvement in trade, and merchants are hopful for the future. (The following quotations are for average grades of the products mentioned. For an extra choice article a somewhat better price than the highest quoted of decidedly inferior quality the seller will probably have to accept less than the lowest published quotation.)

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

NEW YORK, July 1.—The speculative temper underwent an entire change today, owing to the resumption of the liquidating movement and to bold and effective bear operations. There was no reflection of the support accorded the market yesterday, neither was there any noteworthy indication of interest for long account by commission houses. The main discouraging influence was a change in attitude of London. This was supplemented, incidental to the bear raids upon prices by various rumors of the disturbing character; some of which were unbounded, including once it the effect that arrangements were being made for shipments of gold to Europe, aggregating several million dollars. The volume of business was considerably larger than yesterday, and business was fairly well distributed, although two stocks, Sugar and Tobacco, figured for about one third of the aggregate dealings. At the outset the buils were discouraged by lower London prices, and, although some moderate buying orders for foreign account were noted, the traders lined up on the short side and were led by two leading professional operators. An early announcement of the engagement of $200,000 in gold, together with the export rumor referred to above, was followed by a semi-demoralized condition of affairs and prices yielded all along the line. Sugar displayed some buoyancy, but, toward the close was foremost on the down-grade and left off at a net loss of 4½ per cent. The market closed active and weak at the lowest. Bonds were duil, but weak, with concessions material in some of the leading issues. London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says the stock markets were generally quiet today. Americans retained a steady appearance and would probably have a sensible improvement were more business doing, but many of the jobers are away and the duration of the account restrains those who attend. Copper statistics show a further diminution in stocks, the actual amount being 35,000 tons. The deliveries during June were 15.00 tons against supplies of 14,800 tons. The London money market is extremely easy, being practically unsalable. The market opened with a renewal of weakness and gained tone and closed steady. The Berlin market was quiet and featureless.

Boston Weol Market.

BOSTON, July 1.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow that wool sales for the week have aggregated 4.434,751 pounds, including several hundred thousand pounds of domestic scoured, The major part of the business done since last writing was in domestic wool, and this for the most part was sold previous to last Saturday, since which time the market has been very dull. It looks now as though it would be later than the middle of July before manufacturers at large will be ready to talk definitely about the raw stock they will require, so there is a prospect for the next two weeks of a continuation of the waiting attitude which the market has assumed during the last few weeks. Sales since January 1, 1895, have amounted to 99,947,195 pounds against 159,713,734 pounds a year ago. Boston sales were 2,061,000 pounds against 94,573,235 pounds a year ago.

LONG BEACH. July 1.—(Regular Correspondence.) A train of sixteen coaches came down Tuesday, laden with more than a thousand people from a number of the Sunday-schools of Los Angeles, among which were Asbury Methodist Episcopal. Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal, Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal, Boyle Heights Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, East Side Advent and Bethany Congregational. Hundreds of lunch baskets were carried down to the beach, and the noon scene reminded one of the loaves and fishes miracle of olden time. In the afternoon some two hundred bathers were seen in the surf.

Mr. Barker, the patentee of the palace bathing cars. now in use on the east beach, opened his cars to the public on Tuesday morning. The occasion was the inauguration of a series of evening baths, which will continue throughout the summer. Some twenty people availed themsives of his kindness and spent a merry hour amid the breakers. Mr. Barker has run out a life-line from his stand, and is himself always ready to render assistance, if necessary, thus adding safety to pleasure and convenience.

THE LATEST REWARD.

Sheriff Nichols has received a letter circular that, in the language of the vernacular, is a "stumper." It is from the Chinese quarter in Los Angeles, and reads as follows: "Five hundred dollars reward will be paid for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who attempted to rob Wong Hing, and resulting in the killing of Yom Doy, at Santa Ana, Orange county, on the night of May 13, 1896.

(Signed) "WONG FONG "Los Angeles, Cal."

The strange part of the circular is the announcement that Wong Hing has been robbed. It will be remembered that Wong Hing is in jail now, charged with the murder of Yom Doy and from the preliminary examination there seems to be a very strong case against him. Heretofore Wong has said nothing about being robbed and the announcement now comes as a great surprise to the Sheriff and to the public generally. Wong Fong, who affixes his name to the little circular, is said to be a relative of Wong Hing, the fellow who is charged with the murder of Yom Doy.

Camp Meeting has Run Foul of the Tenting Ordinance.

SANTA MONICA, July 1.—(Regular Correspondence.) A situation which is embarrassing both to the city officials and to the other people concerned has arisen in connection with the Methodist camp-meeting which is soon to be held here. The site selected for the meeting is the vacant lot on the easterly side of Ocean avenue, near Railroad avenue, and one of the largest tents which are to be used has been erected. The site is within the territory in which the erection of tents or cloth houses is prohibited by ordinance, being the central portion of the town. The intent of the ordinance is to avoid danger from fire where buildings are close together. In this instance the erection of tents, although a violation of the letter of ordinance, does not appear to violate the spirit of that law. Under the circumstances the police department does not feel justified in enforcing the ordinance in this case, and so the question rests.

There has been a growing feeling of antagonism between San Jacinto and Riverside, and the act of the Supervisors had no tendency to reduce it. San Jacinto was anxious to secure the hospital, and Riverside was determined to prevent the execution of the project. Since the closing of the lease things have appeared to be favorable to the alfalfa city as against the orange city, but it is now claimed the latter is to play a new card, which is believed by many to be a trump. It will be a contest of the legality of the lease. In case Riverside wins the trick it is said the Supervisors will play the deuce by buying the property outright with money now in the general fund. Whether this is a bluff or not, is not positively known, but it is believed the Supervisors hold a royal flush.

hard Gird Prefers Serious Charges Against C. H. Phillips and Asks for the Appointment of a Receiver of the Chino Rancl Company, Which is Granted.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 1.-(Regu lar Correspondence.) A sensationa document was filed with the County document was filed with the County Clerk Wednesday morning by Richard Gird, of the Chino ranch, against C. H. Phillips and the Chino Ranch Com-pany, a corporation. The complaint alleges that Phillips and the Chino Ranch Company are insolvent, and in accordance with the complaint Judge Campbell appointed a receiver, naming S. F. Zombro of this city, and granted a writ of injunction. a writ of injunction.

This action is the culmination of deal between Richard Gird and C. H This action is the culmination of a deal between Richard Gird and C. H. Phillips by which, according to the complaint, the great ranch was sold on September 29, 1894, to the latter. The sale was subject to a mortgage of $525,000 due the San Francisco Savings Union. The purchase price was $1,600,000, and the complaint alleges that Phillips has neglected to pay the interest to the San Francisco Savings Union or meet the payments due to Gird, yet he has collected rentals amounting to $150,000 and has received from sales of land $250,000 in notes. Phillips is alleged to have hypothecated a large amount of these securities and misappropriated the money and alleges that there are other causes of action.

The sale of the Chino ranch to Phillips in 1894 created a sensation, and much speculation followed as to who the real purchasers were, as it was generally believed that Phillips was a figurehead.

The public knew little of the signifi-

the real purchasers were, as it was generally believed that Phillips was a figurehead.

The public knew little of the significance of the deal, and it was not until a few months later that it was learned that a new deal was on, this time looking to the transfer of the ranch to an English syndicate.

Inquiry as to the effect of this latest move on the deal with the Englishmen brings the statement that it will not interfere with the sale.

The Chino property is probably the most famous ranch in Southern California. It lies in the southwest corner of San Bernardino county south of Ontarlo and Pomona, and in recent years has been wonderfully productive in sugar beets, the beets being worked in the great Oxnard sugar factory, now belonging to the Sugar Trust. Large sections of the immerse ranch are used for pasture of flocks of blooded cattle and horses, and the property is a princely estate. The various industries have led to the rapid growth of the thrifty little town of Chino.

POMONA, July 1.—(Regular Correspondence.) A meeting of the City Trustées of Pomona was held Tuesday evening in the City Hall, which was filled with the leading business men of the city, it being known that two important petitions were to be presented to the board at this session.

After the minutes of the previous session had been read and approved, Phil Stein, representing 563 citizens and voters of Pomona, presented a petition, praying the Board of Trustees not to dispose of the water bonds unless all could be sold at the same time, as they felt a sale of only portion would be fraught with danger toward the best interests of the city and its property-owners, in that it would necessitate paying interest upon the amount of bonds thus sold, while a system of waterworks could not be put in with a large block of the bonds unsold. Trustee Raynes spoke strongly in favor of recognizing the rights in the premises of the petitioners, but the remaining four Trustees seemed in favor of merely receiving the petition and placing it upon file.

A second petition signed by 302 voters within the present limits of the city was presented through F. D. Joy. It was asked that the City Trustees take cognizance of the rights of the petitioners under an existing State law providing for the withdrawal of certain portions from an incorporated town or city, and order an election to decide whether or not that part of Pomona described in the document might be allowed to withdraw from the city of Pomona. Mr. Joy cited the law in the case, and asked action upon the prayer of those he represented. The petition of W. A. Bell to act as special attorney for the city for the next three months was carried by a vote of 4 to 1. Mr. Bell offers to serve as long after the three months as his services shall be needed at a salary of $100 per month and an additional $50 for each case in the Superior Court.

There was a good deal of talk about the Southern Pacific Company having hald a short strip of its track on White a second letter to Superintendent Muir insisting upon action in the matter. A letter which was read and approved by the Trustees was forwarded to the same official by the City Cierk.

The ordinance authorizing

The Use of Sea Water for Sprinkling Streets—Veterans Going to the Encampment—A Livery Stable's Financial Trouble—Notes.

SANTA BARBARA, July 1 .- (Regular Correspondence.) Mayor Whitney is in receipt of valuable information as well as encouraging news concerning the use of sea water for street sprinkling and sewer flushing. A. Spaulding Weld, a friend of Mr. Whitney and directly interested, writes to tell of a recent interview with Dr. S. H. Dugin, chairman of the Board of Health or Boston. The doctor is enthus-iastically in favor of salt water for street sprinkling. He says the crust formed by it is one of the best known disinfectants. There is a marked dif-ference, so far as healthfulness is concerned, between the districts in Boston where salt water is used and where it is not used. There is everything in favor of it and nothing against the use of sea water, except the matter of expense, and the doctor thinks that every city should use it whenever and wherever it can. It is a matter of great expense in Boston, as the sea water has to be pumped and piped many miles, but its use is constantly increasing instead of diminshing, and an effort is being made to have it come into general use all along the Eastern coast. The idea that its use will prove injurious to buggles and fine vehicles is absurd and is exploded by the fact that its use is constantly increasing in those wealthy Eastern cities where fine rigs and fancy turnouts are much more numerous than here.

The idea seems to have gained considerable footing here that galvanized iron pipes are to be used in the salt water pipe system, and that they will have to be replaced every two or three years by new ones. The pipe now recommended for salt water use is dipped in a coal tar or asphalt preparation which makes it practically indestructible. So far as can be learned the people are practically unanimous in favor of the adoption of the salt water system and when the opportunity comes the $25,000 bonds will be voted without a murmur.

Probably no city on earth can apply vor of it and nothing against the use of sea water, except the matter of ex-

Probably no city on earth can apply salt water to its streets at a less expense than can Santa Barbara. FATALLY INJURED.

THE MONTECITO SWITCH. Superintendent Mead of the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Company, Telephone and Telegraph Company, says Montecito people are good, but not essentially different from others who want more than they can get. He says they have the best long distance service, put in at heavy expense; that it is equal to any party line service from which the company line service from which the company receives nearly three times what it is receiving from Montecito phones; that the company will not get interest on the investment at Montecito for years, and yet the people are asking for three more lines between Montecito and Santa Barbara.

IN COSTA RICA.

DELIGHTFUL TRIP TO CENTRAL AMERICA.

C. Gay Tells of Some of the Things He Saw—On Mule-back in the Mountains—Raising Coffee and Bananas.

After a two months' trip to Central America, F. C. Gay, the Southern Call-fornia general freight agent, is again at home, overflowing with interesting reminiscences of a delightful trip.

Mr. Gay left Los Angeles on May 11 and went to New Orleans. There, in company with three eastern men, he took passage for five days across the Gulf of Mexico to Limon, the main seaport of Costa Rica. There they changed to a railroad train and were hurried through a hundred miles beautiful country to the capital, San

"Costa Rica is by far the most ad-"Costa Rica is by far the most advanced and most progressive country in Central America," said Mr. Gay. "It has no revolutions; its government is not a military despotism, but a real government of the people, with a constitution framed after that of the United States. The city of San José is kept thoroughly chean. In the whole place I didn't see as much dirt as in a single block in New Orleans. Everywhere are such signs of good governwhere are such signs of good govern

"Costa Rica is about the size of West Virginia. It has some 250,000 people. The upper classes look and act and live just like Americans of the same station. Among the poorer people there are a great number with an admixture of Indian blood, but they are far superior to anything Americans know by the name of Indian, Everybody in Costa Rica owns at least a little land. One sees no beggars and no poverty-stricken people. Everybody has a home of his own and lives quietly and industriously. I didn't see a fight nor a beggar all the time I was in Costa Rica. The only contention I saw was on the wharf at Limon, when a negro dropped a board on another darky's foot.

"Education is compulsory. The "Costa Rica is about the size of Wes foot.

"Education is compulsory. The schools are excellent and there are three times as many schoolteachers as soldiers in Costa Rica. The capital has good telephone service and the country's telegraph system, which is under government control, is of a high grade. One is charged only 20 cents One is charged only 20 cents under government control, is of a nightal grade. One is charged only 20 cents for a ten-word message.

"The country has only a little piece of railroad, and the wagon roads are few.—There is a good road from San José down to Punta Arenas, the Pacific seaport, over which there is much traffic with bullock carts and mule wagons, but in most of Costa Rica one finds only bridle paths and must travel mule back. Path Limon and Punta Arenas are good harbors.

"The capital, San José, has 30,000 inhabitants, but it spreads over far less space than an American town of the same number of citizens. The buildings are almost all of stone, of an unvarying Spanish style of architecture, with pleasant patios, but around a new park, recently opened, a few frame dwellings of the American kind are being built. The city is well supplied with parks, but it hasn't any streetcars.

with parks, but it hasn't any streetcars.

"The San José climate is delightful.
The rainy season lasts from May to December, but, even in the dry months things never look parched and brown, because of the adundance of trees.
The temperature ranges between 65 and 75 deg., rarely either failing below or rising above. The soil is exceedingly fertile and only a small proportion of it has been brought under cultivation. Coffee and bananas are the two staple products, but one can grow anything and everything there.
The land near the railroad is cultivated to the very mountain tops. The Costa Rica coffee is winning an excellent reputation for itself, as it is of the very best quality. The country has an abundance of water and there is no need at all of irrigation.

"Costa Rica likes Americans. They are well treated there and everything is done to help them along. As yet there are not many living there, those who have taken up their homes in Costa Rica being mostly railroad men or coffee-growers and the great majority of them living in San José or along the railroad line. The country is in good financial trim, with $10,000,000 external indebtedness and less than $1,000,000 internal.

"I had a very pleasant trip. Costa Rica is a beautiful country, covered with luxuriant vegetation, with lots of streams and watercourses and with fine mountains. One day, when I had climbed high up on Irizu, an extinct volcano, I could see both the Atlantic and the Pacific at the same time. The people of Costa Rica treat travelers with great courtesy. Altogether, my
pleasantest experiences I have ever had, and something I should much like to repeat some day." "The San José climate is delightful.

CREDITORS HARMONIOUS. Affairs of Mount Lowe Railway Company Being Adjusted.

The plan for securing the creditors of the Mt. Love Railway Company, outlined in The cimes of yesterday, is being rapidly pushed to a successful conclusion. The committee is meeting being rapidly pushed to a successful conclusion. The committee is meeting with no opposition, for all realize that the proposed arrangement will be advantageous to all parties interested. It will avoid the legal expenses of a receivership, it will assure an economical, business-like administration of the road and it will permit Prof. Lowe, for whom the creditors entertain a most friendly feeling, to retain his connection with the company.

Yesterday, the plan of the committee was ratified by the Union Hardware Company, the Hayden Lewis Company, R. W. Pridham, J. D. Hooker & Co., the Herald Publishing Company, the Willamette Steam Mill Lumber Company and the Leand of Sunshine Publishing Company, of Los Angeles; and by the Pasadena Gas and Electric Light Company, Gardner & Webster, O. H. Hayes, Menner & Putnam, the Pasadena Manufacturing Company, and the Union Ice Company of Pasadena.

Fred L. Baker, the chairman of the Creditors' Committee, said yesterday evening that the amount of the floating indebtedness may prove somewhat less than his first estimate, as some creditors, whose claims he included, have security. He finds also that the indebtedness to employés is in better shape than he expected. Many of these employés are still working for the road and are willing to wait for payment until the affairs of the company are in better condition.

Thus far creditors to the amount of $45,510 have signed the agreement prepared by the committee, and about $20,000 more will be signed today. This afternoon the committeemen, who are to act as trustees for all unsecured creditors, will go to Pasadena, and they will there be elected directors of the Mt. Lowe Railway. They will immediately assume control of its affairs.

It is said that one creditor levied an attachment about two weeks ago upon certain real estate in Chicago, belonging to Prof. Lowe, but the attachment will be dissolved when the committee's plan has been finally carried through, and the real estate will be added to the general assets.

general assets.

It will be a satisfaction to the people of Los Angeles if the affairs of the com-pany shall be amicably adjusted, and there will be no interruption in the operation of the road.

AN OFFICE IN STOCKTON. Valley Railroad Will Handle Wheat

An Associated Press dispatch from Stockton says B. G. Maynard arrived there yesterday and will at once open a local freight office for the Valley Rail-road. He says the company will at once prepare to handle the wheat along the line of the road, so far as completed. The service may be irregular at first, but no consignments will be neglected. As soon as the line reaches Fresno, which will be in about two weeks, regular freight service will be established.
